

THIRD ARMY BREAKS INTO GERMAN PLAIN

Meandering
Along the Main Stem
By WASH FAYETTE

It took just 35 minutes for 120 customers to buy 600 yards of cotton prints Tuesday afternoon at Craig's Store . . . where this hard-to-get material had been announced for sale on a small window card . . . and the aisle was jammed with women for a half hour before the sale opened.

"The finest crowd of customers I ever saw" remarked John MacIver, head of the fabrics department after the counters were bare. "No pushing, nor impatience, each awaited her turn and seemed pleased with a length from whatever pattern was available," which all goes to show that in Washington C. H. we have good, considerate and friendly people . . . not the kind who cause the near-riots in some metropolitan stores when critical merchandise is offered for sale.

And that, folks, is real Americanism!

Congressman Clarence J. Brown didn't confine his speech at the Rotary Club Tuesday to politics alone—but even when he exuded a grandfatherly essence of pride and "just look at those kids will ya?" he couldn't resist a plug for the GOP.

This is how it happened: Brown was displaying pictures of his brand new twin grandchildren. Expanding with pride he related "These are not only the largest twins ever born in that hospital but they're red-headed and I can assure you they'll be staunch Republicans!"

With the coming of spring, among the many obvious signs are the new and greener grass that springs up on drab lawns literally overnight, the fruit trees which suddenly blossom into white and pink masses of beauty and also the fact that . . . curtains go down, the sale of strong, cleaning preparations goes up . . . and spring cleaning is on in all its "glory."

"Glorious?" you say . . . the glory comes later and only after many hard and long hours of scrubbing, polishing, cleaning out and throwing away a winter's accumulation.

A good housekeeper amazed at the mess things quickly turn into when she tears into spring cleaning with great vim, vigor and gusto.

After about three weeks of this, (if she has been lucky to find help), clean rooms take on a new spring grandeur and gaiety with bright drapes and slipovers adding their touch of color to the home.

I'm sure every woman feels well rewarded when someone remarks: "My, doesn't everything look nice."

Taking a quick glance around the room, she agrees until she sees her reflection in a mirror. One look is enough to send her scurrying off to the nearest beauty shop where she orders, "give me the works!"

Then off to her favorite department store, she gleefully picks out a pretty spring ensemble; emerging triumphantly all pink and glowing, inside as well as out, the fair sex looks "fair" indeed.

Spring is a pretty wonderful season at that, isn't it?

OPERATOR DENIED
CURFEW-LESS SHOW

TOLEDO, April 4.—(P)—Toledo's curfew-defying Loop theater will be denied the services of a union operator after midnight beginning tonight, John B. Fitzgerald, Cleveland, international representative of the Alliance of Theatrical Stage Employees and Motion Picture Machine Operators, AFL, disclosed today.

Fitzgerald said the action was taken last night at a meeting of the executive board of Local 228. Board members said "they wanted to obey the mandates of the War Manpower Commission," the union official declared.

Jack O'Donnell, president-manager of the all-night theater, has been defying the curfew since March 19. He issued this statement:

"It is unfortunate that American citizens have to be subjected to such a blackjack as this wild administrative agent."

Reconversion Machinery Oiled

By STERLING F. GREEN

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(P)—The capital climbed back on the reconversion bandwagon today—the one that stalled in December at Germany's West Wall.

Within a year after V-E Day, the War Production Board predicts, civilian goods will be coming out of factories at a clip reminiscent of 1939.

Every civilian product—including automobiles, refrigerators, washing machines and radios—will be back in production. And most will have reached the market, WPB Chairman J. A. Krug predicted last night.

DRAFT FOR NAVY
IS CUT IN HALFFull Strength Near, Then
Only Replacements NeededBy MARVIN L. ARROWSMITH
WASHINGTON, April 4.—(P)—The Navy has halved its May draft call and may ask for still fewer men in June.

This will reduce overall Selective Service calls 12 percent or more from the current rate of about 132,000 men a month. They had been scheduled to continue at that pace through June.

Halving of the Navy's requirements will put its May call at roughly 16,000 registrants.

Officials who know these things in advance of public announcements but who cannot be quoted by name added that this quota may be cut further in June and even more sharply thereafter, because the Navy expects to reach peak strength of about 3,600,000 men by July 1.

After that call will be solely on a replacement basis. An official Navy statement disclosed (Please Turn to Page Eight)

MANPOWER BILL DIES
AFTER SENATE VOTE

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(P)—President Roosevelt's request for compulsory manpower controls lay buried today beneath a 46 to 29 Senate death blow.

There was no prospect of fine-or-jail legislation to keep workers on war jobs. And there was little likelihood of compulsion on employers to abide by manpower ceilings.

Despairing of overcoming an overwhelming majority against the manpower bill employing those two weapons, the Senate leadership submitted to a roll call yesterday.

"Glorious?" you say . . . the glory comes later and only after many hard and long hours of scrubbing, polishing, cleaning out and throwing away a winter's accumulation.

A good housekeeper amazed at the mess things quickly turn into when she tears into spring cleaning with great vim, vigor and gusto.

After Germans Beaten, What?
Building Up Morale
For War With Japan
Poses Big Problem

By ELTON C. FAY AND JOHN M. HIGHTOWER

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(P)—The Army is counting on a movie to tell the GI's finished with fighting in Europe why many of them must still shoot it out with the Japanese.

When the troops headed for the European Front, they saw action pictures, heard lectures, read pamphlets explaining the Nazi, his ideas of conquest and how he fought. The Japanese were mentioned more or less incidentally.

Now the Army must educate those soldiers going from Europe to the Pacific to hate a new enemy, it must keep their spirits up for weeks or perhaps months until they can be moved to the Pacific area.

The biggest morale problem of the whole war looms in this interlude between victory in Europe and the launching of the final offensive in the Pacific.

The Army hopes it has the answer in an elaborate program embracing training for the Pacific task—and travel, education and play besides. It is tailored to fit troops. The interest of the Army, however, must extend to the home front and the men and women who make munitions.

The task was easier at the time of Pearl Harbor. The nation was under attack. The national psychology was fear and anger. (Please Turn to Page Five)

The total estimated requirement for canned meat this year is 7,100,000,000 pounds, Olmstead said, and the total prospective supplies amount to 4,037,000,000 pounds.

"Canning lines are operating at capacity," he added.

The present meat shortage may force an official decision soon whether Americans are to have more pork now and less next year, or less now and more in 1946. (Please Turn to Page Two)

THREE HILLSBORO BOYS MEET IN ITALY -- BUT FROM DIFFERENT STATES

SOMEWHERE IN ITALY, April 4.—(P)—Three corporals attached to a B-17 squadron were chewing the fat between missions.

"I'm from Hillsboro." "So'm I," the second retorted. "Me too," the third chimed in. Further fat-chewing developed the following:

Corp. Donald E. Sprinkle, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles B. Sprinkle, an engineer-gunner, is from Hillsboro, Ohio; Corp. Hubert R. Wagoner, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ranson Wagoner, a bombardier, is from Hillsboro, Ind., and Corp. Louis D. Brown, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank D. Brown, tail gunner, is from Hillsboro, Mo.

THIEVES WORKING HARD FOR LOOT THESE DAYS
COLUMBUS, April 4.—(P)—Thieves, reports Franklin County Sheriff Jacob E. Sandusky, are having to work harder for their loot these days.

Thefts last night included a four-ton hoist from a vacant lot in Columbus, and two large hog houses, taken from a Goshen Lane farm.

INCREASE LOOMS
IN SCHOOL AIDBudget Too Low, Claim, as Daniels Bill Supported

By E. E. EASTERLY

COLUMBUS, April 4.—(P)—Governor Frank J. Lausche's estimates of state revenue for 1945-46 were challenged today as the Ohio Senate took up a bill providing $6,500,000 more for the public schools than the governor recommended.

The showdown on this phase of Lausche's financial program appeared right after the legislature disposed of a controversy which had delayed re-enactment of a law allowing war plants to employ women more than 45 hours a week.

Enactment of legislation extending for two years the Ross Act, relaxing the laws regulating employment of women and minors was completed late yesterday when the House approved, 113 to 17, an emergency clause making it effective immediately. Ninety-one votes were needed.

Without the emergency clause, on which the House had balked since last Wednesday, the extending bill could not have become effective until the elapse of 90 days.

Governor Lausche's revenue estimates were challenged when the Senate came to a vote on a bill carrying $110,788,000 for the school foundation program for 1945-46. The governor's budget proposes $104,220,000.

Frank E. Whittemore, Republican floor leader of the Senate, predicted the bill would be passed. Asked if the additional expenditure would upset the governor's budget, Whittemore replied:

"I think the governor's revenue estimates are low. I wouldn't be surprised if the revenues for the 1945-46 biennium ran $10,000,000 more than the governor estimated." (Please Turn to Page Two)

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(P)—The War Food Administration announced today that civilian allotments of butter, evaporated milk, condensed milk and cheese for the April-June quarter are about the same as for January-March.

Civilian supplies of fluid milk, cream, cottage cheese and ice cream are expected to be larger, in as much as milk production increases sharply in this season.

The civilian butter supply for three months will be 323,000,000 pounds compared with between 325,000,000 and 328,000,000 consumed during the first quarter.

COLUMBUS, April 4.—(P)—Ohio farmers this year probably will grow 60 percent fewer vegetables for canning than in 1944 but the state won't go hungry for grain, agricultural reports indicated today.

Elmer Kruse, state AAA chairman, predicted Ohio's crop pattern would undergo its greatest change in recent years during 1945 because of labor and machinery shortages, but he asserted the increase in idle acres would be smaller than earlier reports indicated. Hardest hit by the exodus of agricultural workers to the armed services and war plants are the producers of tomatoes, peas, sweet corn and similar crops requiring "stoop" labor, Kruse reported.

Estimates from canners, Kruse said, showed that sweet corn planting this year might drop because of labor and machinery shortages, but he asserted the increase in idle acres would be

Leap-frogging 41st Division assault forces invaded three islands at the southern tip of the Philippines where they seized a former Japanese naval base and two airfields, posing a new threat today to Borneo, scarcely 30 miles away.

The landing on Tawi Tawi and capture of neighboring Sanga Sanga and Bongao islands appeared to be as easy as the Okinawa campaign at the other end of the western Pacific front, 325 miles south of Japan.

Marines and the Army's 7th Infantry Division scooped up a 10-square mile area of south central Okinawa, including a score of villages, advanced toward two more airfields and the first sign of an established enemy defense line.

Superforts Hit Japan
Some 300 Superforts kept the war blazing over Japan with pre-dawn attacks on Tokyo, Shizuoka, Tachikawa and Koizumi. Pilots reported no opposition. Tokyo radio claimed three Superforts were brought down.

Allied bombers and carrier planes destroyed or damaged 48 Japanese ships and small craft and knocked out 33 enemy planes in sweeps ranging from the Ryukyus down the China coast to the Dutch Indies.

More power for Allied naval operations against the Japanese was reported on its way as the Office of War Information estimated the Japanese fleet has lost a fifth of its personnel. OWI placed Japanese naval personnel losses at 262,000 with perhaps 850,000 left. American naval casualties were 92,819, including 35,750 dead, with more than 3,000,000 now on duty.

British Fleet Reported
Radio Tokyo said a great British fleet was headed toward the Indian ocean to lead amphibious operations against southern Burma, Malaya and the Dutch East Indies. Canada promised to send a small carrier force into the Pacific when the European war ends.

MacArthur reported campaigns in the central Philippines virtually completed on Cebu, Panay and Negros.

Tokyo insisted American invasion forces on Okinawa were resolute. (Please Turn to Page Two)

WASHINGTON, April 4.—(P)—Fred M. Vinson was confirmed by the Senate today as director of war mobilization and reconversion, succeeding James F. Byrnes, resigned.

Approval came by a voice vote without a dissent.

The Kentuckian, elevated swiftly from stabilization director to federal loan agent to mobilization chief, had been approved unanimously for the new assignment an hour earlier by the Senate Finance Committee, headed by Senator George (D-Ga.).

Vinson was questioned for nearly an hour by the committee. Discussing among other things the report on reconversion activities issued last week end by the retiring director, James F. Byrnes.

Senators George and Lucas (D-Ill.) quoted Vinson as expressing "general agreement" with the terms of the Byrnes report.

WOMAN COMES BACK BUT WITHOUT BABY
NEWPORT, Ky., April 4.—(P)—Mrs. Mildred Peters has returned home, but husband Carl and police are looking for the baby boy she says was born March 26, the day she disappeared at the door of a maternity hospital.

Police Chief Leo Livingston said the woman would not disclose the whereabouts of the baby or discuss her eight-day absence. Her only comment, he said, was:

"I don't think you will find any birth record. His health is fine." The husband, a steel plant foreman, told police he found his wife at home early yesterday. Her explanation, he said, was that the baby "is being cared for by John and Mary until I get strong enough to care for him."

SPRING SNOW STORM SWEEPING MIDWEST
Winter's Final Fling Not Likely To Last Long

(By the Associated Press)
One of the most severe spring snowstorms in years deposited as much as 17 inches in Nebraska, Iowa, Minnesota and northwest Wisconsin today, blocking highway, interfering with bus, train and plane travel and forcing some rural schools to close.

The storm developed in Texas and as it moved northeastward it left a trail of thunderstorms and dropping temperatures from Texas to eastern upper Michigan.

It was anybody's guess how much damage the below freezing weather would do to vegetation advanced by abnormally warm March weather.

Chicago weather bureau forecasters said the Midwest could expect two cold nights but that there should be a rising trend by Friday.

Lt. Gen. George S. Patton's Third Army broke out into the plain leading to the heart of Germany today, and to the north the armies of Field Marshal Montgomery reached the Elbe and the Weser rivers through buckling German lines.

Patton's troops were rolling along the last 58 miles to Czechoslovakia.

By German account they had reached Arnstadt, 70 miles from Leipzig and 110 from Pilsen, Czech city and site of the Skoda Munition Works, Hitler's last major arsenal.

The British Second Army was 48 miles from the North Sea and was moving under a news blackout. The U. S. Ninth reached the Weser and threatened Hannover, Prussian stronghold.

In the Ruhr, Field Marshal Albert Kesselring, new German commander in the West, may be caught in the trap.

Far to the south, the French announced capture of Karlsruhe, on the Rhine's east bank.

Civil war was reported to have broken out in Vienna, as the Russians approached.

Vienna Under Red Siege
The powerful Russian offensive surged through the administrative district of greater Vienna, within six miles and easy big gun range of the city. Wiener Neustadt, aircraft center, had been overrun. Other units hammered at Bratislava, puppet Slovakian capital 24 miles east of Vienna's limits.

The Stockholm newspaper Morgontidningen said today civil war was reported to have broken out in Vienna.

"Native workers, together with foreign workers and deserters, have started action and fights are taking place both in central Vienna and in the outer fortifications on which the Russians are advancing," said the dispatch.

Field Marshal Montgomery's British lanced to within 48 miles of the North Sea in the drive to trap Germans in Western Holland, and the Nazis said Canadian troops heading for the Zuider Zee had crossed the Waal Rhine, presumably in the Arnhem area, scene of the heroic British parachute troopers' stand last fall.

Lt. Gen. William H. Simpson's U. S. Ninth Army ranks reached the Weser River at Bad Oeynhausen, 57 miles south of Bremen and 183 from Berlin. The Luxembourg radio said the Ninth had identified troops switched by the Germans from the Russian front among the forces in its path.

Brussels and Paris radios reported that the Swiss-Italian border would be closed, beginning today. Brussels said "important events" were taking shape in north Italy.

Air Attacks Hit Kiel
Some 1,400 U. S. heavy bombers, part of a 3,000-plane assault on the Reich, struck at the submarine yards at Kiel in the second attack there in less than 24 hours, hit Hamburg and lashed at airfields over a wide area. Other U. S. planes were out from Italian bases.

A strong formation of British Lancasters loosed the second attack in 16 hours on Nordhausen. (Please Turn to Page Two)

COMMISSIONERS CONSIDERING USE FOR INFIRMARY

WORK UNDERWAY ON PRELIMINARY COST ESTIMATES

Architect To Make Drawings Showing What Might Be Done With Structure

After more than seven years as a catch-all warehouse, the county infirmary on the Columbus Road may get a new lease on life. Just what that new lease on life will be or whether a new usefulness for the rambling old brick building is possible has not been decided definitely yet, it was said. If the county commissioners—Thomas Parrett, Jean Nisley and Homer Miller, have any particular purpose in mind for the infirmary, they were not revealing it.

The commissioners have a contract with John Quincy Adams, a Columbus architect, to make preliminary plans and estimates for rehabilitation, however. That contract includes a thorough inspection and complete measurement of the building and grounds; complete drawings of the infirmary and grounds as they are now; studies for any possible improvements; drawings indicating notations of "major operations" and preparation of an estimate of costs.

It was emphasized that the architect was employed solely to see what the possibilities for the old infirmary are and to see how much it would cost to bring those possibilities to reality. The preliminary work by Adams will cost $400.

It was said that the commissioners' move was not "looking toward any hospital activity." Another architect already has been employed by the commissioners, Adams and Robert E. Willis, county engineer. Indications are that Adams would start work on the project in the immediate future. Just when he would make a report to the commissioners was not known now.

The infirmary was closed January 1, 1938. Since then, the 391-acre farm has been operated privately, at present by Robert Wilson. Operating costs on the farm were said to be about $20,000 when the infirmary was housing elderly men and women.

The old infirmary has played its part in the present war, too, in the spring of 1942 when a convoy of soldiers camped on the infirmary grounds.

The land for the infirmary was donated to the county in 1863 by Peter Carder. Originally a grant of 507 acres, his widow raised objections to the provisions of the will and a compromise was reached. The foundations of the building were laid in 1867 and the four storied structure was completed in 1869. On July 7, 1869, the first 47 inmates were admitted.

Since then, it has sheltered hundreds of men and women dependent upon the county for their support. When it closed, there were an estimated 30 inmates. Operating costs for the year 1937 were $13,274.

The last seven years of its life as a county infirmary saw an average of 50 men and women living there. Operating costs ranged from $19,814.73 in 1931 to the $13,000 figure for the last year, 1937.

Since its closing, the state highway department and welfare departments have used the building for storage from time to time. For a while, part of the structure was used as a residence for the people who operated the farm. Robert Wilson, who now leases it, does not live on the infirmary farm, however.

The island of Java has a volcanic mountain backbone which reaches as high as 10,000 feet.

VICIOUS DOG SHOT TO DEATH

Had Attacked and Severely Lacerated Small Boy

A vicious dog that attacked and badly lacerated the face of four-year-old David Wilson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Wilson, was shot and killed by John Arnold, Tuesday, soon after it had bitten the child. It was buried near where it was killed in a field near the Arnold home.

As result of the dog being killed and buried there is no way to tell whether it was suffering from rabies, but belief is expressed that it attacked the child by reason of being vicious and angry at being chased from the Wilson premises.

Ott Gilmore, to whom the dog allegedly belonged, told Chief Vaiden Long, that he did not own the dog, and that he had tried repeatedly to drive it away, but it came back to his home each time.

get out of the way of industry on the day that happens."

Pressure on Congress developed for a start on legislation to ease the postwar tax burden on business and thus encourage investments in expanded peacetime enterprises. This came in a unanimous resolution of the civilian advisory panel—representing labor, management, agriculture and the public—of the Office of War Mobilization and reconversion.

Krug cautioned in outlining WPB's reconversion program that the Japanese war would have first claim on the country's resources. He said many shortages will continue for months in clothing, leather, lumber, chemicals and some other lines.

WPB's top command planned departure for Detroit tomorrow to confer on reconversion and war production with automobile manufacturers.

Vern Haugland, Associated Press war correspondent aboard Admiral Turner's flagship off Okinawa, said air observers reported occasional Japanese fire as well as signs of an elaborate trench system bustling with activity across the southern end of the island near Naha.

He wrote the possible defense line near north of Machinato air strip, five miles north of Naha and Tonabaru strip, six miles east of the capital.

Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner, Jr., commander of the 10th Army, said "the crucial period of landing men and supplies is over... even without opposition an operation this complicated could have broken down."

Another Associated Press correspondent, James Lindsay, in the field on Okinawa with the Marine Third Amphibious Corps, quoted Maj. Gen. Roy S. Geiger, Leatherneck commander, as saying the Okinawa operation developed so rapidly a complete change of plans had to be made.

"We are out of the woods, now," the general said.

The event proved one of unusual interest last year, when former members up to 80 years of age participated in the program.

SCHOOL AID INCREASE LOOMS AS DANIELS BILL GETS SENATE SUPPORT

Whittemore said that on this basis the school bill, sponsored by Senators Virgil E. Cramer (R) of Toledo and Albert L. Daniels (R) of Greenfield, could become a law without upsetting the budget.

The governor, in allocating expenditures for state departments and state subsidies, figured the general revenue fund would have a surplus of $270,000.

Whittemore asserted "I can't see how we can properly finance the schools for much less, unless they look to local subsidies for revenue."

The state spent $104,685,000 on the public schools in 1943-44. Re-enactment of the Ross Act terminated an hiatus of two and a half days in which war plants were required to revert to the peacetime maximum of 45 hours a week for women.

Earlier, the Senate postponed action on a bill to increase salaries of elective state officials, including members of the legislature, when opposition developed. The measure would increase senators' salaries from $2,000 a year to $3,000; while House members would be hiked from $2,000 to $2,500.

The Senate education committee recommended passage of a proposed constitutional amendment to establish a state board of education, which would appoint the state director of education. The director now is appointed by the governor for a four-year term.

If approved by the legislature, the amendment then would have to be ratified by the state's voters.

Final decision on the fall pig production goal may hinge on the outcome of current closed-door discussions among the United Nations. These are seeking to determine whether available supplies are being so used as to meet military requirements and to provide a fair distribution among civilian groups.

THIRD ARMY BREAKS OUT INTO GERMAN PLAIN AS NAZIS SQUEEZED IN TRAPS

55 miles east of Kassel on the direct route to Berlin, hitting Nazi troop concentrations in support of Patton's troops now fighting more than 200 miles east of Aachen, within 140 of Berlin and more than three-fourths of the way across the waist of Germany. Less than 160 miles separated Patton from the Russian lines. Berlin was struck by Mosquitoes during the night.

The estimate of German troops trapped in the Ruhr was raised to between 120,000 and 150,000 as the U. S. First and Ninth armies narrowed the perimeter of the trap to 190 miles and the 12th Army group broadcast an appeal to the encircled Germans to surrender because "there is no hope for you." Gen. Eisenhower told Germans that "the end is not far off."

Muenster has fallen and Hamm in the Ruhr was ready to fall.

Canadians Close Trap

In the north Canadian troops closed rapidly a trap on the bulk of 90,000 Nazis in western Holland. A Paris radio report said the drive was only ten miles from the banks of the Zuider Zee.

Osnabrueck, linking Holland with northern Germany, fell to British airborne troops as British tanks by-passed the city and raced on under a news blackout.

On the central front Patton's men fought street by street through Kassel, industrial city 165 miles from Berlin, and at the southern end of the American front the Seventh Army captured Aschaffenburg after a bitter siege, while other troops fought into Wuerzburg and swept to within less than 40 miles of the Nazi shrine city of Nuremberg.

Other Seventh Army troops were less than ten miles from Karlsruhe. In the area of that city the French First Army was steadily widening its Rhine bridgehead.

In Italy British Eighth Army troops joined after making landings on both sides of the strip of land separating the Valli Di Comacina Lagoon from the Adriatic Sea at the extreme eastern end of

MANDL IS NABBED IN ARGENTINA, HINT

Government Takes Over His Factories, Too

BUENOS AIRES, April 4.—(AP)—Fritz Mandl, former Austrian munitions magnate, was reported under arrest today after the Argentine government announced it was seizing his big metal and plastics manufacturing company which had been on the Allied blacklist for six months.

The reasons for Mandl's reported detention were not immediately disclosed, but the decree for nationalization of his factory called attention to recent measures under which the government is authorized to seize control of assets belonging to persons whose activities are deemed a menace to the security of the state or the war effort to the United Nations.

Mandl was divorced from screen actress Hedy Labarr in Mexico City in 1938.

NO POSTWAR TROUBLE FOR REPUBLIC STEEL

Reconversion Will Be a Cinch in Most Plants

CLEVELAND, April 4.—(AP)—Reconversion won't be much of a problem to the Republic Steel Corp.

Only three manufacturing divisions of the nation's third largest steel producer will require major changes to shift to peacetime production, Board Chairman T. M. Girdler and President R. J. Wyser informed stockholders in a letter accompanying the corporation's annual report.

The remainder of the manufacturing divisions and all Republic's steel plants, the executives declared, will be able to convert with little interruption since equipment for production of war steels and fabricated products is substantially the same as for normal peacetime operations.

GLEN MURPHY, Com.

THE WAR TODAY

—By DEWITT MACKENZIE—

There is no more important development in the Hitlerian war than news that Marshal Tolbukhin's Third Ukrainian Army is flinging itself against the outer defense line of Vienna and that the battle for the Austrian capital—Nazidom's second largest city—is joined.

This fight for Austria—first country seized by Hitler in his campaign of brigandage—is of vast moment militarily, for it is the back door to the Reich and imperils the Fuehrer's scheme for making a final stand in the Alps. It's more than that. Involved is a political significance—a question of sphere of influence—which will provide a further test of the strength of Big Three unity.

The Nazis are reported to be resisting the Red onslaught fiercely. Those of you who remember Vienna in its happier days as I do, will perhaps wish that this fine old city might be spared destruction. Still, the way the battle begins it seems rather a forlorn hope that the ancient and attractive buildings of the inner city, and the famous Ringstrasse, will escape heavy damage.

However, Vienna must be wrested from the Boche. In order to understand the full meaning of this situation we must go back to the Moscow conference of the Big Three foreign ministers in '43. The basis for cooperation among Russia, Britain and America in Austria was laid, and it was agreed that the independence of this country—an unwilling and helpless victim of aggression—should be restored.

It was further agreed that American and British, as well as Russian forces, should participate in the liberation of Austria. There was a fundamental difference between the political situation expected to develop in Austria and that which exists in the Balkans, where views of Russia on the one hand and the Western Allies on the other haven't always coincided.

Hungary, Romania and Bulgaria have been recognized as spheres of special Russian interest. Austria, however, has been regarded by the western world as falling outside that category. This presumably accounts for the project of having the military forces of all three big powers cooperate in the liberation of Austria.

However, events have decreed that the Russians should be the first into Austria, and this gives special point to an editorial observation of the Washington Star January 5. Foreseeing the possibility that military fortunes likely would bring the Russians first into Austria, the Star commented:

"Experience has shown that character of military occupation has inevitable political consequences no matter what diplomatic formulas have been drawn up to cover the situation." The Star added that Moscow's influence would have "profound repercussions in Austria when the Nazi yoke has been broken by Soviet arms."

The progress of the Western Allied armies make it possible that the original idea of having all the Allies participate in Austria's liberation may still work out. Elements of the American Third and Seventh Armies and may be in time to join in the fray. Meantime we get the interesting, though unconfirmed, report that the Nazi authorities have executed 6,000 people in Vienna for defeatism, sabotage and demonstrations. This is a reminder that there is a distinct chance of revolution against the Hitlerites—a revolt which Moscow radio has strongly urged on the Austrian people.

BROWN BLAMES BUREAUCRATS IN FOOD SHORTAGE

Congressman Delivers Strong Criticism at Rotary Club Meeting

"With production of agricultural foodstuffs in this country probably reduced to half of the amount estimated to be required, owing to inefficient and bungling meddlesome government agencies, unless the government sees fit to release a great amount of food for civilian use, which is now held back for military purposes or for shipment for civilian use abroad, 1945 will witness the greatest food shortage in this country since the Civil War. We are about to reap the whirlwind sown by scores of irresponsible men placed in vital responsible positions of government."

This was the astounding warning statement made by Congressman Clarence J. Brown of this district, in a talk before the Washington Rotary Club members and guests at the Country Club Tuesday noon. His address was regarded by his hearers as one of the most forceful and significant they ever had heard him give among the many he has delivered in this city.

Introduced by Attorney Ray Maddox, as a representative in congress of whom the whole seventh Ohio district is proud, and a man who has shown remarkable growth in his grasp of public affairs since going to Washington, as well as having acquired national standing over the country in his courageous fight for the people's rights, Congressman Brown launched into a talk on the food situation which held his audience intense as he fired volley after volley of facts he reported he had learned by congressional committee investigations and personal research, all pointing to a lamentable weakness in the national administration's handling of the food situation.

In the beginning of his talk Brown paid a high compliment to the farmers of Fayette and other counties for their past three years of bountiful crop production, much of the time under the handicap of lack of help with many farmers unable to obtain much of the agricultural machinery and other equipment needed. He called attention to the fact that this was the longest period of consecutive record crops in the nation's history and that by the law of averages it could hardly be expected to be maintained.

"Farmers of this section and other great agricultural sections of the country are doing this with a loss of one third of their manpower and insufficient machinery and in spite of the war restrictions have produced 38 percent more food than usual. And yet a food shortage exists here in the midst of plenty," Brown declared. He told how in many of the eastern states and certain other congested regions hundreds of families found no meats available in the legitimate markets and if they secured meat were compelled to patronize black markets to get it. This condition also was true regarding even poultry in many places, he stated.

"Agencies of government have so 'messed up' the situation on foods that they are giving it away or permitting it to spoil in some places almost as fast as it can be produced," he asserted. Too many government agencies duplicating or contradicting each other's work is partly responsible, he indicated.

He then called attention to the fact that many of our service men in theaters of war have been without meat except canned stuff, much of the time, in spite of government agencies' insistence that our shortage is due to shipments to our soldiers. "Inefficient men, utterly unfamiliar with production or handling of food stuffs, are sitting in palatial Washington, D. C. offices trying to tell the farmers what they should do," he declared, and then related several incidents of ridiculous procedure by what he termed inexperienced and unformed bureaucrats to prove his point. "This is not a politically partisan criticism as many of the leading Democrats in congress are far more infuriated over the situation than I am," he asserted.

Brown stated that he had taken the time to make a survey in his own district of nine counties, of which Fayette is one, and in the cross section of farmers' viewpoints he had obtained, he found that the great mass of farmers are expecting to reduce their crop acreage now because of their inability to harvest crops due to lack of manpower and sufficient farm machinery. He pointed to the fact that on many farms in this region and elsewhere there is more corn still in the fields than has been the case for years. He also called attention to the fact that there were less beef cattle on feed this year than in many years and declared that price ceilings set by the government had caused this because farmers cannot continue big production at a profit. He told of a check-up he made in one township which indicates a heavy falling off in hog production in his home county of Clinton, and declared that this appeared to be a general condition in many hog-raising localities.

The speaker told at some length of the peculiar lend-lease arrangement whereby, he said, England formerly had been buying meats for cash from Canada at eight cents per pound but stopped the purchase when he shipped what England wanted in meat under lend-lease for which no cash had to be put up. Brown declared that 65 percent of that shipped meat went into the civilian market in England and the money went into the English treasury while we in turn began buying meat from Canada at 12 cents per pound. He mentioned that neither Canada, Mexico or any other country in the western hemisphere is rationed on meats except the United States.

Touching on the subject of lard, Brown told how the government bought twenty million pounds of lard and stored it in vats in Cincinnati while urging all housewives to save fats and greases, then allowed this huge amount, approximately 300 freight car loads, to spoil, selling it to soap manufacturers at a big reduction in price, the taxpayers making up the difference. "And the very next week after that happened," said the congressman, "red points were slapped back on lard for individual consumers."

Approximately 50 percent of the small meat packers of the country have been forced to close down because the OPA refuses to let them sell at a price other than one which means operation at a loss, Brown declared, and told of one packer he knew in Ohio who had been losing $70,000 a month and holding on in the hope that something would be done to help right the situation.

Brown also spoke of huge losses in potatoes handled by the government, both in finances and the product itself. Kraut was another subject he took up and called attention to inconsistent and impractical handling which brought great loss to the taxpayers.

CHERRY HILL P-TA HAS TWO SPEAKERS

Miss Mary D. Robinson; T-Sgt. Richard Patton Are Guests

Two phases of war activity—that of a radioman on a bomber raiding Germany and that of the Red Cross on the home front—were presented to Cherry Hill P-TA members Tuesday night at a meeting in the school building when new officers were named.

The new president is Mrs. A. B. McDonald. Other officers are Mrs. Walter Rettig, first vice-president; Miss Opal Davids, second vice-president; Mrs. Ralph Hickman, secretary and Mrs. H. P. Boylan, treasurer.

A picnic on the school grounds was set for May 5 at 6 P.M. The Cherry Hill picnic is an annual affair. A food sale by the P-TA also was scheduled for May 12 but no announcement was made as to where the sale will be.

T-Sgt. Richard Patton, son of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Patton, 927 Briar Avenue, told the P-TA of his tour of duty overseas, beginning with his flight across the Atlantic when he left for England and ending with his return to the States less than two weeks ago.

Miss Mary Robinson, home service secretary of the Red Cross here, told of her work in contacting families of servicemen overseas through Red Cross field directors. She said she had received as many as 12 telegrams a day concerning these servicemen's problems.

Free City of Danzig

Danzig, one of the last-remaining German strongholds on the Baltic coast, now taken by Russia, is often described as "the former free city." This is the epitaph on a promising political device which did not work. It was a city inhabited chiefly by Germans, also a sea outlet for Polish commerce. So that Poland should not be cut off from the sea, a corridor of Polish territory was created, running from the Polish interior through German East Prussia to the Baltic.

Danzig itself was made an independent community under the League of Nations. The term "free city" recalled the old German free cities, Hamburg, Bremen and Lubeck, which for centuries governed themselves independently.

The scheme failed through German insistence that Germany should not lose territory in the East, least of all to the Poles. To have their own outlet to the sea, the Poles developed as a port Danzig's neighbor, Gdynia. This hurt Danzig's trade, and was still another German grievance, capitalized by the Nazis. They practically controlled Danzig before the war, and it was one of the first districts to be annexed.

Under the Yalta agreement Danzig goes to Poland. Polish it is likely to remain.

Service Men's Court

When a gallant service man becomes a criminal, it always seems worse than in the case of an ordinary American. James Jobe lay for hours on a battlefield in the Pacific, badly burnt by flaming gasoline, and when rescued, had to be discharged from the navy. On his return to Chicago he lost one job after another, and finally appeared in court on a criminal charge.

Judge Charles S. Dougherty of Chicago now proposes a special court for service men in his plight, with members of the American Legion to serve as probation officers. Such an institution would recognize the special debt which the country owes to the men in the armed forces, and the similarity in the problems with which they are too often confronted. If the Chicago experiment is actually put into operation, its working will be watched with much interest. It would be a doubtful experiment.

What Kind of World?

When all the shooting is over, and the dead are buried and the men come home, and normal life is resumed as far as it can be—what then? What shall we have gained from this great effort and sacrifice that will be worthy of the men who saved the world for us?

A finer patriotism, perhaps, than we have felt before in these many years. We know better now the perils of this world, the machinations of unscrupulous men and nations, and the virtues of our own people and of nations associated with us in saving human freedom for ourselves and our children.

We shall have, we hope, adequate appreciation of the men who have fought and bled, and especially of the many who have died, that we civilians and our children and their children might live.

Today's Horoscope

Determination, courage, and a fierce will to succeed characterize you if this is your birthday. Beware of over-working to the detriment of your health. You should also strive to cultivate a more cheerful manner, and do not let misfortune discourage you. Remember, always, tomorrow brings new hopes, new opportunities. Today's influences indicate new gains from unexpected sources. Keep a keen lookout, especially for returns or business advancement, and remain conscientiously busy at your everyday tasks. Write letters tonight.

One Minute Test Answers

1. A chant or hymn of praise to God.
2. The changing of the music from one key to another.
3. Sir Isaac Newton.

"Say not the struggle naught availeth,
The labor and the wounds are vain,
The enemy faints not nor faileth,
And as things have been, they remain."

The enemy is being swept, in Milton's contemptuous phrase, "over the backside of the world, far off." We may yet have, if we have acted manfully and seen clearly, a really new world, brighter and better and more reasonable, worthy of the men, living and dead, who have won it for us. It is mainly the civilians' task to create such a world.

The Wounded Recover

A wounded soldier has a nine to one chance to recover. Stomach wounds in the last war killed two out of every three. Now 70 percent survive, and at least one fourth are able to return to active service. Even wounds of the lungs, head or brain cost the lives of only ten percent. Out of 50,000 wounded men evacuated from the continent after D-Day only 200 have died.

These facts should be of some consolation to anxious relatives. Their men are in danger, but far less so than in any former war.

Use Tax Stamps

Repeal of the five dollar federal use tax on automobiles is proposed by Congressman J. Harry McGregor of Iowa. He says that it costs the owner of a humble jalopy just as much as the possessor of an expensive limousine. Also as no receipt is given, if it is stolen or drops off, the owner has to get another.

The income it brings is a mere drop in the bucket of national expenditure. Money could be raised in some other way with more desirable social results. It is certainly a nuisance and seems completely unjustified.

Better keep an eye on the kids this summer. A lot of them will insist on crossing the Rhine, in ponds, quarry pools, lakes and rivers, with wholly inadequate boats.

The Germans, trying to grab everything, have probably lost a century.

Two Different Kinds of Flatfoot in Children

By HERMAN N. BUNDESEN, M. D.

WHEN most children begin to walk, it is often noted that the foot turns outward. This is due to a lack of control or power in the leg muscles, together with some looseness of the ligaments which support the ankle.

A habit of turning the feet inward at this age is common. This is a device on the child's part to assist the weak muscles, to raise the inner border of the foot and help try to support the body weight normally. The habit should be discouraged until the need for it is past. Then it will be found that the child walks with the feet parallel.

Often, it will appear that a child has flat feet which turn outward when the condition is due only to the presence of a large fat pad on the sole of the foot.

None of these conditions is abnormal. However, many children do develop true flatfoot. The feet turn outward during walking and standing and the arch is also flattened. The flatfoot may be one of two types. The first is known as mobile flatfoot and the second, rigid flatfoot.

The mobile type may be brought on by muscular weakness, looseness or weakness of the ligaments or the wearing of poor quality shoes. In the rigid type, the rigidity or stiffness may be due to scar tissue, to bony changes, or to spasm of the muscles.

In cases of mobile flatfoot, treatment consists of restoring the normal shape of the foot by using shoes which correct the weight-bearing position of the feet. The shoe, in these instances, is one with a raised inner border of the heel. Often the upper part of the shoe is also stiffened. The second part of the treatment consists of training the muscles to hold the foot at the proper position.

I have outlined suggestions for these exercises, which can be employed under the directions of a physician, and I shall be glad to send them to everyone writing in and enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope. Names will not be used. The exercises must be used daily over a long period of time in order to obtain permanent results.

In rigid flatfoot some type of operative treatment is usually necessary. Manipulation of the foot after the child has been put to sleep with an anesthetic, followed by the use of a cast is employed when the trouble is due to fibrous or scarlike tissue. When the condition is produced by bony changes an operation is needed. When the trouble is due to spasm, an operation is also the method of treatment employed.

Flat feet may be painful and disabling. Hence, children with flat feet should be promptly and properly treated.

Tomorrow, Dr. Bundesen will discuss "High Blood Pressure and Kidney Damage."

"YOUR NEIGHBOR"

Do you know the neighbor who lives in your block.

Do you ever take time for a bit of a talk?

Do you know his troubles, his heartaches, his cares.

The battles he's fighting, the burdens he bears?

Do you greet him with joy or pass him right by?

With a questioning look and a quizzical eye?

Do you bid him "Good Morning" and "How do you do?"

Or shrug up as if he was nothing to you?

He may be a chap with a mighty big heart.

And a welcome that grips, if you just do your part.

And I know you'll coax out his sunniest smile.

If you'll stop with this neighbor and visit awhile.

We rush on so fast in these strenuous days.

We're apt to find fault when it's better to praise.

We judge a man's worth by the make of his car.

We're anxious to find what his politics are.

But somehow it seldom gets under the hide.

The fact that the fellow we're living beside

Is a fellow like us, with a hankering, too.

For a grip of the hand and a "How do you do?"

With a heart that responds in a welcome sincere

If you'll just stop to fling him a message of cheer.

And I know you'll coax out his sunniest smile.

If you'll stop with this neighbor and visit awhile.

PENNSYLVANIA READY

FOR CLEAN OHIO RIVER

HARRISBURG, Pa., April 4—Pennsylvania is ready to participate in an interstate agreement for control and abatement of stream pollution in the Ohio River basin.

Governor Martin yesterday signed legislation ratifying with reservations the Ohio River Valley water sanitation compact.

HELEN COMES HOME

by Watkins E. Wright

CHAPTER TWENTY-EIGHT

THERE WERE many times during the busy days there in Lakeville when Helen wished with all her heart that she could do just what she had said to Philip—marry him immediately. But always there was Paul, and all that he had meant to her—there was always the feeling that she could not be sure of happiness with one man until she had cured herself entirely of the other one.

Then would come the question: How can you cure yourself of Paul when you keep on seeing him? To this she could find no answer. And then another question would come: Would you honestly want to go on seeing Paul if he didn't have the plane, and if you didn't have a passion for flying? There was no answer to that one, either. Though sometimes she almost convinced herself that she could gradually put Paul out of her life—break away completely from the charming companionship he offered her—if his interests were centered on the plantation alone. There were times, even, when she accused herself of acting more like a 17-year-old girl than a woman who would soon be 27.

But however she might view the problem—the problem of herself, Paul and Philip—she felt uncertain, disturbed. It was one of those upsetting situations that might go on for years and years, remaining more or less static. That is, unless she did something. And the more she thought about it, the more confident she became that it was up to her, and to no one else.

She was thinking along those lines—and not at all happy—on the morning her aunt came hurrying into the office. She was waving a sheet of paper and her face was flushed with excitement.

"It's come!" she cried. "We're going to get it!"

"Get what, Aunt Minerva?" Helen asked.

"The Army and Navy award, of course. The coveted 'E'."

"Oh, that's wonderful!"

Miss Minerva handed her the communication. It was from Washington. It said the Miller plant deserved recognition for its splendid accomplishments, and that upon a date to be named later there would be a presentation of the "E" award for excellence. The writer thanked Miss Minerva, as owner of the plant, for her magnificent patriotism, and warmly congratulated her.

"Now," said Helen, "you can go right out and buy that frock!"

"And get a new kind of hair-do," Miss Minerva added. "To say nothing of getting Philip to help me plan what to say." She held out her hand. "Give me that letter, Helen. I've got to run downstairs and tell him the news. He deserves as much credit as I do."

"I'll call up Paul, too, and tell him," said Helen.

"Why?" Miss Minerva demanded, stopping at the threshold.

"So's he can be sure and get his photographic supplies," Helen said.

"He's planning to take pictures of the presentation from the air."

"For the local paper?"

"For national-wide publicity," said Helen. "And for posterity."

"Humph!" said Miss Minerva.

"Posterity, my eye! If you don't marry soon and have a family, there'll be no posterity, so far as the Miller family is concerned." She gave Helen a searching look. "Have you definitely decided to be another Miller old maid?"

"Of course I haven't."

With this parting remark—which had in it a touch of cruelty—Miss Minerva departed.

Helen frowned. And as she opened her desk drawer for a mirror to have a look at her reflection, she wished to high heaven her aunt would stop talking about old maids and spinsters. It was so darned depressing. And she had troubles and worries enough without being depressed as well.

When she had examined her reflection very minutely, and felt no better from having done so, she picked up the telephone and called the Wentworth number.

Zoe answered.

"This is Helen Miller, Zoe," Helen said. "Is Paul anywhere around?"

"I've some exciting news."

"No, he's out on the plantation somewhere," said Zoe. "Can't you tell me the news? I like excitement as well as Paul."

"Of course I can," said Helen. She told of the letter from Washington. "I wanted to give Paul plenty of time to get ready for the pictures."

"I'll run right out and tell him!" said Zoe. "I was going out to hunt him anyway. We had an exciting letter from Washington, too!"

"You mean the Wentworth plantation is to get an 'E' also?" said Helen.

Zoe laughed. "Oh, no. Our letter is purely social. A man we met up there wants us up for a week-end housewarming."

"How nice! Are you going?"

"You bet we are! I'm all excited about it."

"Have a good time," said Helen. "But get Paul back in time for the presentation."

"When's it to be?"

"We're not sure of the date. We'll know a little later."

"Oh, well, Mike's party is this coming week-end, so Paul will probably be back in plenty of time. I'll explain it all to him."

And this Zoe was doing a short time later.

Paul, sun-tanned, bareheaded, wearing working clothes, stood beside a field in which beets had been planted, and listened with interest.

"Boy!" he said. "We'll get some swell shots! The crowds around the plant, red, white and blue bunting—and the big flag waving from the factory mast. Miss Minerva and the big shot from the government."

"But that's not all," Zoe cut in. She handed him Mike's letter.

He read it and said: "Oh, that's

"Yes, that. And it's no way to speak of Mike's kindness."

"Maybe I don't consider it a kindness," Paul said.

"Well, whether you do or don't," said Zoe, "I want you to plan everything so that we can go."

"Nothing doing!" said Paul. And when he saw Zoe bristling, he said: "Look here, honey, you know perfectly well I can't go gadding off right in the midst of the planting season."

"I don't see why not. The things will grow without you being here to—to force them to do so."

"That's not the point. I'm needed for a lot of work on the plantation at this time. I can't just pick up and leave when—"

"I notice you can always pick up and leave when it comes to flying around with Helen Miller," said Zoe crossly.

"That's different. I'm never gone more than an hour or so. Besides, it's part of my work as a CAP."

"Wonder."

"I wonder what?"

"I wonder if it isn't just an excuse to be with Helen."

"That's a darned fool thing to say, Zoe," Paul flared.

"Is it?"

"It certainly is."

"How about the time you were gone for two days?"

"I was following orders from the Civilian Air Patrol," said Paul. "I decided to remain overnight at a Coast Guard station to study some plans and get some pointers." He shrugged. "Anyway, Helen wasn't with me."

Zoe kicked viciously at a clod of dirt. "You could go to Washington with me if you really wanted to," she said.

"I couldn't," said Paul. "I couldn't go even if the invitation was for a White House party—instead of one from a social-climbing nonentity."

"You make me sick, Paul," Zoe said angrily. "Sometimes I think you're just a clod-hopper at heart."

"Be that as it may," Paul retorted. "I'm not going to Mike Waterman's party."

"Well, I am going."

"Suit yourself," said Paul. "If you think it's the correct thing to do."

"What's incorrect about it?"

"Married woman parading off to a single man's party—minus her husband."

"Now," said Zoe, "you're being too prim and proper for words."

"Okay!" Paul started away. "Take it or leave it."

"I'm taking it," snapped Zoe. "But I'm leaving you."

"Permanently?"

"Don't be silly. I mean I'm going to leave you for long enough to go to Mike's party."

Paul strode off, calling back: "Have a swell time, honey! Get all the gossip—and don't lose too much to that Roark woman when she drags you into a bridge or poker game."

"Oh, go to the devil!" said Zoe. (To Be Continued)

VETERANS' GUIDE

BY MAJOR THOMAS M. NIAL

To qualify for a monthly guarantee of $100 as a self-employed veteran, you've got to be able to show you're independently engaged in your own business.

The regulations say you must be "self-employed for profit in an independent establishment, trade, business, profession or other vocation."

What further makes you eligible? Well, you must have been in active service for at least ninety days (part of which was after 16 September 1940). If you were separated because of a disability incurred in line of duty, you don't need the full ninety days service.

The only other requirement is that you "shall have been discharged or released from active service under conditions other than dishonorable." That may seem like a sort of negative way of saying something positive, but you can't mistake its meaning.

Similar eligibility rules apply for ex-service people who aren't working for themselves, but who have worked for others and are now out of a job.

I've already mentioned this provision in a previous column. But it's so important that it will bear further notice.

Joe is always a good guy to call a fellow without naming real names. So let me tell you about a guy named Joe, a veteran who thought he was smart.

He had work, but he heard about the GI Bill's provision for unemployment pay. Thinking he would cut in on the gravy, he laid down on the job. Loafed whenever he pleased, which was constantly, and spent much time in the wash room.

"Joe, you've lost interest," his foreman told him. "What's eating you?"

"Oh, nothing," Joe answered indifferently; then added, "Don't like the work."

LOCAL MAN IS ABOARD FAMOUS 'PENNSYLVANIA'

Norman C. Sharrett Member Of Crew of Ship Japs Could Not Sink

(Special to the Record-Herald) ABOARD THE USS PENNSYLVANIA SOMEWHERE IN THE PACIFIC — Although Radio Tokyo has reported her sunk several times the USS Pennsylvania is still very much afloat, as members of her crew, including Seaman Second Class Norman C. Sharrett, USNR, son of Mrs. Elvira Sharrett, Washington C. H., will testify.

The first public announcement of her record in the Pacific, made recently at Advance Pacific Fleet Headquarters, tells of her participation in 13 amphibious operations and of her part in the defeat of the large Japanese Naval force in the Battle for Leyte Gulf on October 24 and 25, 1944. The "Pennsy," as her crew knows her, has possibly shot more main battery ammunition at enemy positions than any other ship—more than 11,000,000 pounds.

This old, broad-beamed Pearl Harbor "ghost," whose keel was laid on October 27, 1913, has covered nearly 100,000 miles of Pacific water from the Bering Sea to Southern Australia. For a period of four months she cruised in waters west of Tokyo.

The Pennsylvania's assignments against the Japanese began with the destruction of enemy installations at Attu. Since then she has been at Kiska, Makin Island, the Marshalls, Eniwetok, the Marianas and the Philippines.

Testimony of the accuracy of her guns came when a shore party during the invasion of Guam sent an urgent call for help in a designated area. When the echoes of the first four-gun salvo from her secondary batteries had died away, the shore party signaled: "Nice shot, Pennsylvania. Mission completed."

On the morning of January 6, 1945, this resurrected battleship began the shelling of Lingayen on Luzon. The Pennsylvania was the first to fire. For three days the Japanese threw all possible air power at the invading forces, but at the final hour, troops and supplies streamed ashore unmolested.

The Pennsylvania's fire power has earned her a special place in Navy annals. Someone once wrote of her, "The old girl shoots so fast and so much that at times she looks as though she's afire."

And that may be the secret of the enemy claims that she has been hit and sunk several times.

BUILDING UP MORALE FOR WAR WITH JAPAN POSES BIG PROBLEMS

which gave a mighty impetus to the war effort. Now this nation is almost three and a half years deep in war. Some troops and workers are a little bored. Others are weary. All are concerned about resuming more normal lives.

On top of all this, Germany is about to be defeated. Perhaps most of the GI's who have helped defeat the Germans feel they have done their part and should come home. Yet the top Army men, who are authority for this and other articles in this series are planning for a Pacific war lasting 18 months to two years after Germany goes down.

Telling the GI's that most of them aren't through with the Army is going to be difficult. The Army intends to move swiftly. Copies of its "re-orientation" film are ready for projection machines of every troop unit in Europe, to be shown almost at the moment they cease firing.

The printed word will follow

In pocket size pamphlet. Lectures and roundtable discussions will be encouraged. (And these, the GI's don't like, having listened to them for upwards of three years.)

The re-orientation can't be started too soon. Commanders in Europe want to keep the attention of their men riveted on beating Germany until that chore is done. Afterward, however, there must be no time for worry or uncertainty over the future.

Many thousands of soldiers will spend several months in Europe and then be started out directly for the Pacific theater. They won't have the lift of a furlough at home, and they won't have the tension of battle to help them forget. Some will have to service and repair weapons for the Pacific. The military duties of most will include only the Army's housekeeping routine and training.

So the Army has arranged what it described as an "educational and recreational program," directed by Major General Frederick H. Osborn, the Army's specialist on education and morale.

The men will be able to take their pick of education university subjects, trade schools, historical courses, mathematics. All will be required to study something.

Stacked in warehouses here and overseas are mountains of textbooks and material. Prerequisites for specific courses are drawn up. Instructions for company and division commanders to set up courses and assign teaching personnel are ready. Teacher commanders have been given the authority to put the schools in operation.

If the GI wants to travel, that will be arranged. Tours already mapped are intended to show the soldier a deal more of Europe than what he saw from a foxhole.

Tons of sports equipment—football, baseball, basketball—are stockpiled for shipment to Europe. Nor have checkers, chess and table tennis equipment and material for amateur craftsmen been forgotten.

The Navy's situation is better. It set up its principal place of business in the Pacific at the start.

Generally, it has no worry about its men losing their fighting edge. The naval war in the Pacific moves in rising tempo.

The soldiers and Marines as well as the Navy's sailors in the Pacific no longer will mutter about being the orphans of the war, getting help on a shotstring. They can feel their war is big-time and their day of triumph and peace much closer.

The psychology of the fighting man is only half the picture. The other half, on the home front, may pose the more difficult problem.

War leaders see home front morale as composed of two elements, the attitude of parents, wives and sweethearts, and the attitude of war plant workers.

With the approach of victory in Europe, the Army began hearing things like this: "My boy has been overseas two years. Let someone else carry on in that war way out there in the Pacific. I need him to help out down here on the farm."

The Army thinks those are sound arguments. It has announced it intends to do what it can about them. Soldiers will be discharged, but not now, nor all at once, nor until after most of them have seen service in the Pacific.

Of equal concern to the high command is the psychology of the war plant worker and his boss. Military leaders say if the management-worker team should decide the war effort no longer needs its full service, there would be no use in the Army's redeploying its fighting men in the Pacific. The war would be over before victory—a Japanese victory.

These leaders want the home front to feel what President Roosevelt has said: "America must be prepared for a long and costly struggle in the Pacific."

MORE INSTRUCTIONS GIVEN FOR CLOTHING DRIVE

ORGANIZATIONS ARE INFORMED BY COMMITTEE

Individual Collection Units To Be Set Up Soon, Is Hope of Groups

With the month for the United National Clothing Collection already here, the county committee today urged all organizations to notify their memberships the time and place of their clothing collection as soon as possible.

It already has been explained that each organization will set up an individual collecting, sorting and packing unit.

To make the sorting and packing easier, a guide for sorting has been set up. Categories are: infants' clothing up to three years; children's clothing from three to eight years; men's and boys', nine years and over; women's and girls, nine years and over; shoes, paired and securely tied together; and bedding, usable remnants and miscellaneous.

After collection units have been set up and supplies are needed, the organization are asked to call E. C. Boodt at 2539 or W. C. Dreisbach at 24021. For transportation to or from collection units organizations are to call Robert E. Willis at 8371. Schools should call A. B. Murray at 33011 or W. J. Hilty, 8361 for transportation.

The Lions club is furnishing cartons and supplies for packing and the Rotary Club is providing transportation—to deliver cartons to the collection centers and later in April when the collection is completed, gather up the packed cartons for shipment.

It was pointed out the containers should be of heavy sound cardboard construction. For ease in handling, each container should weigh about 100 pounds fully packed. Each container should be packed as full as possible to avoid crumpling and breaking of the carton when it is handled, it was explained. Old markings and labels on containers should be removed or blacked out, it was added.

Two copies of each carton's contents are to be made—one to glue on the side of the carton and the other for the committees.

The more than 100 organizations which are to participate in the drive include the city and rural churches, city and county schools, and nearby villages as well as the organizations listed below:

Eastern Star, Business & Professional Women, Rotary Club, Lion's Club, Phi Beta Psi, Delta Kappa Gamma, Mothers' Circle, Browning Club, Cecilian Music Club, Child Conservation League, American Legion, American Legion Auxiliary, Veterans of Foreign Wars, Ladies' Auxiliary V.F.W., Fayette Co. When a 3-inch Pinion looks as Big as a WAGON WHEEL

Farmer Joe was half through harvesting oats when his well-worn machine gave an ump and a grunt . . . and . . . QUIT! All the cajoling, coaxing and pleading in the world wouldn't help that tool . . . only a new pinion would do the trick.

So a hasty trip to town . . . to his implement dealer . . . and THERE . . . the vitally needed part. That little 3-inch pinion looked as big as a WAGON WHEEL to Farmer Joe. And no wonder . . . 30 acres of his oats depended on it.

PARTS

We're striving to keep every farmer supplied fairly, equitably and promptly. You can depend on Wilson's Parts for a guaranteed fit and for durability. Wilson's Parts . . . for all types of farm machinery . . . have been giving satisfaction for the past 50 years.

Poor Digestion? Headachy? Sour or Upset? Tired-Listless?

Do you feel headachy and upset due to poorly digested food? To feel cheerful and happy again your food must be digested properly. Each day, Nature must produce about two pints of a vital digestive juice to help digest your food. If Nature fails, your food may remain undigested—leaving you headachy and irritable. Therefore, you must increase the flow of this digestive juice. Carter's Little Liver Pills increase this flow quickly—often in as little as 30 minutes. And, you're on the road to feeling better. Don't depend on artificial aids to counteract indigestion—when Carter's Little Liver Pills aid digestion after Nature's own order. Take Carter's Little Liver Pills as directed. Get them at any drugstore. Only 25¢.

"Why am I Still Waiting, WHEN MY NEIGHBOR JUST GOT A TELEPHONE?"

WE KNOW just how you felt when the new neighbor across the street got a telephone, after you had been waiting patiently for many months for home telephone service.

You can't be blamed for feeling put out, so we want you to know why your neighbor might have obtained telephone service. It might have been:

1. Your neighbor may have a key position with a vital war industry—or with some essential civilian activity affecting public welfare, health or safety—which requires that he be available at all hours. This would give him precedence over other applicants.
2. He may have applied for service many months before he actually moved, and before your application was made.
3. He may have moved into your neighborhood from a home in the same community, or one nearby, where he had telephone service. Transfers of the service of present subscribers are made within the same general area whenever possible.

In every instance we shall be glad to check for you just why your neighbor got service ahead of you.

Telephone people are following the procedures which were set up by the War Production Board, when shortages in telephone facilities began to appear in 1942 and are installing service in its proper turn under the fair and necessary rules.

We know what telephone service means to every home and regret exceedingly the inconvenience caused to those on our waiting lists. It also grieves us that we can't tell you how soon you will be served. We can assure you that your order will not be forgotten and will be filled in its proper turn, even though that might be some time after final victory.

ENGINEERS EMPLOYED TO APPRAISE WATERWORKS

CHICAGO FIRM TO REPRESENT CITY IN DEAL

Water Company Is Asked To Name Appraiser Under Franchise Plan

As further evidence that city officials mean business in connection with moves to purchase the plant of the Ohio Water Service, Inc., here, council, in special session Tuesday night, adopted a resolution naming Alvord, Burdick and Haxson of Chicago, nationally known engineers, to represent the city in appraising the physical properties of the plant.

Another resolution was adopted authorizing City Manager W. L. Stambaugh, to inform the Ohio Water Service, Inc., officials of the action taken, request that the company name an appraiser, and to proceed with negotiations generally looking toward acquiring the plant under the provisions of the franchise.

The franchise, it is pointed out by City Solicitor John B. Hill, provides that when the city wishes to acquire the property, it name an engineer to represent the city in appraising the property; the company is to name a second engineer to represent it, and the Common Pleas Court selects a third engineer, the three to fix the valuation at which the plant is to be purchased.

When the session opened City Manager Stambaugh called attention to the purpose of the meeting as being consideration of a resolution to employ an engineer or engineers to represent the city in fixing the value of the plant.

It was stated at the meeting that the sale of stock by Otis & Co., announced Tuesday, would in no way affect the proceedings toward purchasing the plant.

It was explained also that inasmuch as Circleville did not have the purchase clause in the franchise under which the company operates, condemnation proceedings had been resorted to, and that such condemnation would not be necessary.

All members voted for the resolution when it was submitted and the engineers and city manager will press the company for early action in selecting an engineer to represent them in the appraisal.

The plan is to purchase the plant and pay for it out of receipts, at the same time lowering rates and installing a water sewer, so that the cost to taxpayers under the plan would not be a single cent.

Once paid for over a period of years, a still further reduction in rates and betterments would be possible, it is pointed out.

Employment of the engineers is in accordance with the agreement entered into with the First Cleveland Corporation, which has agreed to underwrite the purchase if the plant can be purchased for a reasonable price.

HOSPITAL IS FAVORED BY MADISON COUNCIL

Postwar Military Training Vetoed at Meeting

Expressing belief that Fayette County can support a hospital and declaring the hospital is needed more than a swimming pool, the Madison Township Farm Bureau Council met with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Hays for its April session.

The necessity for a good doctor to supervise the hospital also was listed among the requisites for the postwar hospital project. A negative vote for military training after the war and a belief that ceiling prices on farm products can be maintained after victory in Europe also were recorded.

Mr. and Mrs. Earl King and Mr. and Mrs. Max King helped serve refreshments after the discussion period. The next meeting of the council will be May 7.

The San Francisco-Oakland Bay Bridge is insured for approximately $40,000,000.

COUNTY'S SCHOOLS RATED FIRST GRADE

Inspector from State Rates Four High Schools OK

Fayette County's high schools today stayed on the list of first grade high schools approved by the State Department of Education, W. J. Hilly, superintendent of county schools, said today.

He had just received a report from R. M. Garrison, supervisor of the State Department of Education, which rated Bloomingburg, Jeffersonville, Madison Mills and Wayne High Schools satisfactory on a 10 point score card after an inspection March 19 and 20.

Administration, instruction, library, commercial, health, home economics, industrial arts, music, science and building and grounds were included among the things rated by Garrison.

Bloomingburg's ratings were: administration, S plus; instruction, S plus; library, S minus; commercial, S; health, S minus; industrial arts, none; music, S; science, S minus and building and grounds, S minus.

Jeffersonville: administration, S plus; instruction, S plus; library, S minus; commercial, S; health, S minus; industrial arts, S plus; music, S minus; science, S minus and building and grounds, S.

LAND CONFISCATION FEARED BY PAINT FB

Investigation of State Laws Asked at Session

Whether or not Ohio has laws to protect farm lands from "confiscation" by the federal government for "questionable projects against the county and state wishes," was the chief topic of discussion at the meeting of the Paint Township Farm Bureau Council II at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Griffith Tuesday night.

The bird sanctuary in Massachusetts was cited as an abuse of the land and an investigation of the situation was asked, it was reported.

A unanimous vote to keep quail on the song bird list and a negative vote on the sale of colored margarine also were recorded. A potluck supper preceded the meeting.

NEW BUILDING WILL BE READY MIDDLE OF MAY

Work on Central Grocery Co. Delayed Repeatedly For Months

The new building of the Central Grocery Co., being constructed on the site of the block that was burned out on Market Street, last October 15, will be ready for occupancy, under present plans, about May 15, W. M. Campbell, owner of the building, said Wednesday.

The structure occupies the space formerly used by the Central Grocery Co., and the Meriweather Motor Co., and is a one-story structure built purposely to house the Central Grocery Co., and so constructed that a second and third story could be added with a minimum of expense.

The new structure will be semi-fireproof, with rear entrance for trucks to drive into the building and load.

Work on the building was interrupted last December and bad weather prevented completion of the walls.

Lack of material and much unfavorable weather has further retarded work.

As soon as the weather permits, the roof is to be placed over the structure, after which the job of completing the interior will take place.

The outside walls are virtually finished.

While the building is under construction the Central Grocery Co. is conducting business in the warehouses of the Fayette Canning Co. plant, on Hinde Street.

CROPS NEEDING LABOR TO BE REDUCED MOST IN OHIO THIS SUMMER

acres in normal times. The totals are exclusive of corn grown for the "roasting ear" market.

Last year 8,600 acres of peas were planted, only slightly below the peacetime average of 9,000 acres, but estimates for 1945 show not more than 6,500 acres will be cultivated.

A total of 34,000 acres were planted to tomatoes last year and the 1945 goal is 35,000 acres, but indications point to about half that amount, except in the northwestern portion of the state, Kruse said.

"We just can't do it with the help we have left," the average farmers were quoted by Kruse as saying.

Apparently anticipating an increased labor shortage, farmers last fall seeded 2,284,000 acres to winter wheat which will be ready for harvest next July. The total was 226,000 acres more than the 2,058,000 acres planted the previous season.

Of the 2,058,000 acres seeded that year, Ohio crop reporting service figures showed 2,035,000 acres were harvested for a total yield of 46,805,000 bushels under 1944 drought conditions.

An average yield of 20 to 21 bushels an acre in 1945 would supply Ohio with an above-normal crop of from 46 to 47 million bushels, Kruse said.

Many farmers are turning to soybeans because that crop can be planted and harvested with machinery and requires no care during the growing season.

The Triple-A chairman expressed belief the 1945 goal of 1,350,000 acres of soybeans would be attained without difficulty.

Kruse said the 1945 corn goal

THE OLD HOME TOWN

By STANLEY

Fayette County Boys With Armed Forces

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Johnson of Sixth and Sycamore Streets, have received word their son, Sgt. Donald C. Johnson, has arrived safely in England. Prior to leaving for overseas, he was stationed for three years at Patterson Field.

Sgt. Harley Woodrow Summers arrived here Saturday to spend a 21 day furlough at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Summers.

Sgt. Summers has returned to his country after spending 39 months in the South Pacific area. Another son, Cpl. Everett E. Summers of Liberal, Kansas, is also here on furlough.

Mr. and Mrs. Ivan Blair, 375 North North Street, have received word their son, Cpl. James William Blair, has arrived safely in New York, coming from Italy. He has been in service 3 years and part of that time has been spent in India and Italy.

Cpl. Blair returned to this country for treatment of an illness he suffered while overseas.

Give It A CHANCE To Help Feel BETTER
You can help your bowels to act properly by making it a habit to move them at regular times every day. If an occasional attack of bowel sluggishness causes headache or temporary minor intestinal distress, give TONOLIN No. 1 or 2 a chance to remove the waste matter accumulated in the bowels. Then see for yourself how much better you will feel. Caution: Use only as directed. Sold by

SECRETARY OF STATE BUYS BEA-MAR BULL

Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., Purchases Animal for Farm in Virginia

U. S. Secretary of State, Edward R. Stettinius, Jr., has purchased a Hereford bull from Bea-Mar Farms west of Washington C. H. on the CCC highway for an announced price of $12,000. It was placed in a special truck and left here Wednesday morning for Rapidan, Va., where it will head the Stettinius Hereford herd on his "Horseshoe Farm."

The bull purchased from Bea-Mar was Real Domino 28, sired by Real Prince, 85, and the dam was Miss Domino 1065. It was raised on the Bea-Mar farms and will be two years old in July.

The transaction was made by Marvin Utz, farm manager of the Stettinius farm of 650 acres at Rapidan, who came here this week, accompanied by his herdsman, Leece George, to remove the animal to its new home in Virginia.

Utz said he had picked the bull on the Bea-Mar Farm after visiting many herds in many states and going over the offering of the various breeders.

So far as known the price paid for the bull is the highest ever paid for a native Ohio Hereford bull and the fact that the bull was picked from the Bea-Mar Farm herd is a high compliment to the owners, Sam Marting and S. C. Beasley, who have long since been recognized as among the leading Hereford breeders in the United States.

Stettinius, who resides on his farm at Rapidan when not living in Washington, D.C., has some 200 head of Herefords, and the fact that the Bea-Mar bull is to head the herd is further evidence of the high quality of the animal and the Bea-Mar herd generally.

Utz said the bull here was the best he could find. He was here several weeks ago in connection with the deal.

Balinese are considered among the most expert rice growers in the Pacific.
